

FAST PENNY SPIRITS ANNOUNCES PARTNERSHIP WITH CAVATAPPI DISTRIBUZIONE

The premier distributor will handle wholesale distribution of Amaranico in Washington state and commits to support more women-owned distilleries.

SEATTLE, Washington (November 3, 2021) – Fast Penny Spirits, a Seattle-based amaro distillery, announced today that its Amaranico and Amaranico Bianca will be distributed in Washington state through Cavatappi Distribuzione, a subsidiary of Southern Glazer's Wine and Spirits.

“Cavatappi's commitment to integrity and authentic relationships are the values that we seek out in all of our partnerships,” said Jamie Hunt, CEO and Founder of Fast Penny Spirits. “I started the amaro distillery with the goal of giving back to the community and this partnership provides an excellent growth opportunity to introduce our products to more consumers and advance our philanthropic objectives.”

Fast Penny Spirits' Pretty Penny partnerships give 3% of bottle revenue to support empowering women in business, local communities, and the beverage industry.

“Fast Penny Spirits' beautiful Amaranico and Amaranico Bianca are the exact type of spirits we want to bring to our customers,” said Michael Smith, General Manager of Cavatappi. “Cavatappi has always been a relationship-driven group, celebrating the stories and people behind the wines and spirits we offer. As part of shaping our spirits portfolio, we're committed to supporting more women-owned distilleries and are proud that Fast Penny Spirits is one of the first partners.”

Cavatappi Distribuzione represents a wide range of carefully selected wines from around the world. The distributor is expanding its spirits portfolio with a commitment to showcasing the producers who are not afraid of pushing the envelope to achieve the best in their respective classes.

Amaranico is currently distributed in California, Georgia, Oregon, and Washington and shipped directly to consumers in 30 states.
